

Parker Hannifin Posts Monthly Orders Trend

June 4, 2003

CLEVELAND, June 4 /PRNewswire-FirstCall/ -- Parker Hannifin Corporation (NYSE: PH) today reported orders for the month of May in the company's industrial and aerospace segments. Orders for the North American Industrial business decreased nine percent from the same month last year, while the Rest-of-World Industrial segment decreased one percent. At Parker Aerospace, orders were nine percent higher than last year.

In the North American Industrial segment, most major markets remain unchanged, with weakness in automotive and agriculture. The decline in Rest- of-World Industrial orders was driven by Europe, offset by continued strength in Latin America.

The outlook for Aerospace remains mixed. Commercial aerospace remains under pressure due to both the outbreak of severe acute respiratory syndrome, or SARS, in Asia and airline capacity reductions. Defense aerospace continues to benefit from increased defense spending, with little impact to date from the war in Iraq.

Orders provide near-term perspective on the company's outlook, but are not in themselves an indication of future performance. All comparisons are at constant currency exchange rates with the prior year, restated to the current year's fixed exchange rates. All exclude acquisitions until they can be reflected in both the numerator and denominator. Aerospace comparisons are rolling 12-month average computations to mitigate volatility within monthly figures.

Forward-Looking Statements:

Forward-looking statements contained in this and other written and oral reports are made based on known events and circumstances at the time of release, and as such, are subject in the future to unforeseen uncertainties and risks. All statements regarding future performance, earnings projections, events or developments are forward-looking statements. It is possible that the company's future performance and earnings projections may differ materially from current expectations, depending on economic conditions within both its industrial and aerospace markets, and the company's ability to achieve anticipated benefits associated with announced realignment activities and strategic initiatives to improve operating margins. Among the other factors which may affect future performance are: changes in business relationships with and purchases by or from major customers or suppliers, including delays or cancellations in shipments; uncertainties surrounding timing, successful completion and integration of acquisitions; threats associated with and efforts to combat terrorism, including effects from the war with Iraq; the impact of Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome on global travel; competitive market conditions and resulting effects on sales and pricing; increases in raw-material costs that cannot be recovered in product pricing; and global economic factors, including currency exchange rates, difficulties entering new markets and general economic conditions such as interest rates. The company makes these statements as of the date of this disclosure, and undertakes no obligation to update them.
