

Parker Hannifin Posts Monthly Orders Trend

November 5, 2003

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5 /PRNewswire-FirstCall/ -- Parker Hannifin Corporation (NYSE: PH) today reported orders for the month of October in the company's industrial and aerospace segments. Orders for the North American Industrial businesses increased eight percent over the same month last year, while Rest- of-World Industrial orders also increased eight percent. In the Climate and Industrial Controls business (CIC), order rates were two percent lower, and orders at Parker Aerospace were eight percent higher than last year.

In the North American Industrial units, the company noted continued positive signs in oil and gas, with heavy-duty truck, construction, and semiconductor also positive. In Rest-of-World Industrial, agriculture and the oil and gas markets are improving. European orders are slightly positive year over year, while Latin America and Asia Pacific regions remain strong.

The decline in CIC orders was in line with expectations, reflecting lower demand in the automotive and air conditioning markets, somewhat offset by positive trends in construction and agriculture. Aerospace orders remained positive driven by strength in military and easy comparisons.

Orders provide near-term perspective on the company's outlook, but are not in themselves an indication of future performance. All comparisons are at constant currency exchange rates, with the prior year restated to the current- year rates. All exclude acquisitions until they can be reflected in both the numerator and denominator. Aerospace comparisons are rolling 12-month average computations to mitigate volatility within monthly figures.

Forward-Looking Statements:

Forward-looking statements contained in this and other written and oral reports are made based on known events and circumstances at the time of release, and as such, are subject in the future to unforeseen uncertainties and risks. All statements regarding future performance, earnings projections, events or developments are forward-looking statements. It is possible that the future performance and earnings projections of the company and individual segments may differ materially from current expectations, depending on economic conditions within both its industrial and aerospace markets, and the company's ability to achieve anticipated benefits associated with announced realignment activities, strategic initiatives to improve operating margins, and growth initiatives. A change in economic conditions in individual markets may have a particularly volatile effect on segment projections. Among the other factors which may affect future performance are: changes in business relationships with and purchases by or from major customers or suppliers, including delays or cancellations in shipments; uncertainties surrounding timing, successful completion or integration of acquisitions; threats associated with and efforts to combat terrorism; competitive market conditions and resulting effects on sales and pricing; increases in raw-material costs that cannot be recovered in product pricing; and global economic factors, including currency exchange rates, difficulties entering new markets and general economic conditions such as interest rates. The company makes these statements as of the date of this disclosure, and undertakes no obligation to update them.
