

Parker Hannifin Reports Monthly Orders Trend

January 6, 2005

-- Orders Increase Across All Segments

CLEVELAND, Jan. 6 /PRNewswire-FirstCall/ -- Parker Hannifin Corporation (NYSE: PH) today reported orders for the month of December in the company's industrial and aerospace segments. Orders for the North American Industrial businesses increased four percent over the same month last year, while Rest- of-World Industrial orders increased 15 percent. In the Climate and Industrial Controls business (CIC) order rates were four percent higher, and orders at Parker Aerospace were 25 percent higher compared with last year.

In the North American Industrial segment, the company noted order strength across most major end markets, including oil and gas, mobile and general industrial. Distribution continues to be strong. In the Rest-of-World Industrial units, all regions reported year-over-year increases. In CIC, the increase in orders can primarily be attributed to weaker comparisons.

Aerospace orders continue to gain solid momentum in both the commercial and defense markets.

Orders provide near-term perspective on the company's outlook, but are not in themselves an indication of future performance. All comparisons are at constant currency exchange rates, with the prior year restated to the current- year rates. All exclude acquisitions until they can be reflected in both the numerator and denominator. Aerospace comparisons are rolling 12-month average computations to mitigate volatility within monthly figures.

Forward-Looking Statements:

Forward-looking statements contained in this and other written and oral reports are made based on known events and circumstances at the time of release, and as such, are subject in the future to unforeseen uncertainties and risks. All statements regarding future performance, earnings projections, events or developments are forward-looking statements. It is possible that the future performance and earnings projections of the company and individual segments may differ materially from current expectations, depending on economic conditions within both its industrial and aerospace markets, and the company's ability to achieve anticipated benefits associated with announced realignment activities, strategic initiatives to improve operating margins, and growth initiatives. A change in economic conditions in individual markets may have a particularly volatile effect on segment results. Among the other factors which may affect future performance are: changes in business relationships with and purchases by or from major customers or suppliers, including delays or cancellations in shipments; uncertainties surrounding timing, successful completion or integration of acquisitions; threats associated with and efforts to combat terrorism; competitive market conditions and resulting effects on sales and pricing; increases in raw-material costs that cannot be recovered in product pricing; the company's ability to manage costs related to employee retirement and health care benefits and insurance; and global economic factors, including currency exchange rates, difficulties entering new markets and general economic conditions such as inflation and interest rates. The company makes these statements as of the date of this disclosure, and undertakes no obligation to update them.
